Navigating My Career Journey

"Navigating My Career Journey" refers to the intentional process of understanding, managing, and progressing through my career path over time. It recognizes that a career is not just a job or title, but a journey that involves growth, reflection, and strategy.

1. Self-Assessment

- Who am I?
- What are my values, strengths, passions, and goals?
- What do I want from my work and life?

2. Goal Setting and Visioning

- Where do I want to be professionally in 1, 5, or 10 years?
- What kind of impact or legacy do I want to leave?

3. Strategic Planning

- What skills, experiences, or credentials do I need to move forward?
- What choices or trade-offs must I consider?

4. Adaptability and Resilience

- How do I handle changes, setbacks, or unexpected opportunities?
- Am I willing to pivot, reset, or reinvent myself if needed?

5. Decision-Making

- Do I take initiative or wait for opportunities?
- How do I evaluate risks and rewards?

6. Support Systems

- Who are my mentors, sponsors, or allies?
- Am I leveraging my network and relationships effectively?

"Navigating My Career Journey" means taking ownership of my path, reflecting on where I am, clarifying where I want to go, and mapping out what it will take to get there, while being open to growth and change along the way.
